NDIS WORKER SCREENING

The National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) Worker Screening Check (Check) is a compulsory screening strategy for people who work in risk assessed roles for registered NDIS providers. In Western Australia, the Screening Unit operates within the Department of Communities.

The NDIS Check is a mechanism that helps NDIS providers determine that individuals providing support and/or services do not present an unacceptable risk of harm to people with disability.

Whilst compulsory for those working in risk assessed roles for registered NDIS providers, NDIS participants who manage their own funding can request workers who provide support and/or services to obtain an NDIS Check at their discretion.

Further information about the NDIS Check can be found at ndiswsu.wa.gov.au or by calling 1800 225 558.

NEEKI DESIGNS - THE WONDER SHEET

Stand 258

The Wonder Sheet (WS) is a unique style of fitted bed sheet owner Dominique Sanday designed for her dad who had Parkinson's disease. Turning over and getting in and out of bed was becoming difficult for him. It's all because of the satin panel, which is under your shoulders, back and hips.

People with other mobility issues tried the WS and got the same result; Increased mobility, more independence and less effort required.

Please come and see their display and Dominique will show you how it works.

Turning over independently with less effort is now possible.

THERM-OZ SHOWERS

Stand 113

Thermostatic showers have been used in the UK and many European countries for 35 years. Therm-Oz Showers have made that possible now in Australia by getting the Australian standard in to the watermark scope and plumbing code. Thermostatic showers remove the risk of scalding by keeping a constant safe temperature. No sudden hot or cold spells if other appliances are used at the same time.

Simple to operate with a simple ¼ turn twist of the right handle, helping with independence and assisting carers because the temperature will not fluctuate. If someone has a standard 2 tap manual shower, a licenced plumber can change over to this system with no plumbing or tiling alteration in 1-2 hours.

A quick solution an OT can recommend, and change people's lives. Assisted technology for showers is here.
